COMBINE WITH TRIOTECH™

THE UNDERLAYER FILM

The Triotech underlayer film must be placed directly on the plant material and underneath the silage film and it will draw closely to the crop. This technique enables you to:

- Avoid the formation of air pockets, which can appear in thicker and more rigid covers, and by that limit the risk of mould connected to poor fermentation
- Covers the front of the silo after opening, in order to avoid it heating up which will lead to massive loss of nutrients in the forage.
